Note: Great care and effort have gone into the creation of the designs and engineering of these plans. However, because of the impossibility of predicting the many conditions of the site, soil, and construction methods, and because of the impossibility of predicting the many variations in local building code requirements and other possible actual construction and because of the possibility of human error, Atlanta Plan Source, Inc. assumes no responsibility for any damages, including structural failures due to any deficiencies, omissions, or errors in the design, in any ordinance, the maximum liability of Atlanta Plan Source, Inc. shall be a refund of the purchase price of the home plans. These home plans are designed to meet the requirements of the 2000 International Residential Code. You should consult with your local building officials prior to the start of actual construction. Additional engineering may be required to comply with seismic, wind, or other special conditions as required by local building codes.

Notice: Great care and effort have gone into the creation of the design and engineering of these plans. However, because of the impossibility of providing any personal and/or "on-site" consultation, supervision, and control over the actual construction and because of the great variance in local building code requirements and other local building and weather conditions, Atlanta Plan Source, Inc. assumes no responsibility for any damages, including structural failures due to any deficiencies, omissions, or errors in the design. In any instance, the maximum liability of Atlanta Plan Source, Inc. shall not exceed that amount of the blueprint price. These home plans are designed in nature. It is recommended that a professional engineer review these plans to make sure they meet your local building codes prior to the start of actual construction. Additional engineering may be required to comply with seismic, wind, or other special conditions as required by local building codes.
